The Tragic End of Laughter

It's pretty hard to laugh when you've been inoculated with fear and isolation. Paralyzing gaslighting was the starting point. But the constant and continuing drumbeat of fear and necessary isolation transcend simple gaslighting. Fear and isolation were beneath the plunger being pushed down hard in the first needle forcibly stabbed into the world's arms. And, that original fear-and-isolation inoculation of stress provided the opportunity for more tangible inoculations. Denial of natural immunity amplified any justification for, if not providing an outright blessing on many of these outrages.

It All Began with Fear

When Covid-19 came along, Laura Dodsworth grew alarmed—not at the virus, but at the fear swirling around it. She watched the fear grow legs and wings and wrap itself around her country. What troubled her most was that her government, historically charged with keeping people calm during times of crisis, seemed to be amplifying the fear. The media, which she had expected to push back against government edicts, gave the fear train an extra shove.

Fear of Covid Is the Opiate of the People

Like any old school respiratory virus, this one made us feel lousy, albeit with a different constellation of symptoms. We handled it the same way as other viral illnesses: we drank extra water, took some home remedies, and tried to get some extra sleep. A few years ago, no one made a big deal about, or needed to categorize, being sick like this. People rode it out. No one cared what you had. Or didn't have.

The Twitter Files: Just the Beginning

What pertains to Twitter is surely true at Google (therefore YouTube), Facebook (therefore Instagram), Microsoft (therefore LinkedIn), and even Amazon (many great books were blocked from publication and distribution). At this point, one would have to be completely blind about the reality of what we've dealt with for almost three years: in the name of virus control, the country, its laws and traditions, its liberties and rights, were taken over by a junta with different ideas.

5 Takeaways From Fauci's Deposition in Social Media Censorship Lawsuit

The 446-page transcript, released Monday, of Dr. Anthony Fauci's deposition in a lawsuit alleging he and other Biden administration officials colluded with tech companies to censor social media content raises questions about Fauci's involvement in orchestrating an official, government-sanctioned COVID-19 narrative.

By all means, let's talk about epistemic injustice

I'll start: mainstream gaslighting of people who are vaccine injured is the quintessential example of epistemic injustice.

<https://tobyrogers.substack.com/p/by-all-means-lets-talk-about-epistemic>

Jim>hate to put this concluding snippet, but it is so true...I and so many if us are living this...they think we're fools...it's maddening...

So BY ALL MEANS let's talk about epistemic injustice. We live in a society awash in epistemic injustice against the vaccine injured, the unvaccinated, and critical thinkers. The rich and powerful always try to silence those who threaten their standing. If scholars of epistemic injustice want to be taken seriously they must highlight these harms wherever they occur — even when committed by their own tribe. Stopping epistemic injustice starts with listening to the stories of the vaccine injured, hearing their cries, and standing with the oppressed against the oppressors in the pharmaceutical industry.

Munchausen by Proxy...YES, Fauci has this serious medical condition, a 'caregiver with a pathological need to appear devoted and caring inflicts, worsens, & dramatizes illness in a dependent person'

Does this not describe Fauci perfectly? he is the sick parent or care giver inflicting pain on 'us' the population, his 'children' for 'attention'...he is deliberately hurting us for attention

The Truths We Dared Not Speak in 2021

At the end of this terrible year, we are left only with ironies.

By Victor Davis Hanson

About Victor Davis Hanson

Victor Davis Hanson is a distinguished fellow of the Center for American Greatness and the Martin and Illie Anderson Senior Fellow at Stanford University's Hoover Institution. He is an American military historian, columnist, a former classics professor, and scholar of ancient warfare. He has been a visiting professor at Hillsdale College since 2004. Hanson was awarded the National Humanities Medal in 2007 by President George W. Bush. Hanson is also a farmer (growing raisin grapes on a family farm in Selma, California) and a critic of social trends related to farming and agrarianism. He is the author most recently of The Second World Wars: How the First Global Conflict Was Fought and Won, The Case for Trump and the newly released The Dying Citizen.

I don't normally include comments from an article but this one by "Task" should be heard as well:

"There is one item so titanic and so obvious that it garners more incredulity and consternation than all of the rest. And that is the stolen election. It is as though the magician, David Copperfield, one evening, when he felt inclined to outdo himself, had a fog and clouds descend over Manhattan Island and, in the morning, after the fog lifted, people realized that all the buildings were gone, or rearranged, and most of the residents disappeared. As strange as that story appears to be, it was superseded by something even stranger. People on the left, along with all the media applauded, explained, with incredulous talking points, that it was no trick at all but was, in fact, not a bit different than the once strange arrival of Martians in the NJ. Meadowlands, in 1938, as explained on the radio by Orson Wells, and very much believed by the listeners. In this case, however instead of entertaining the possibility of disbelief, incredulity, cheating and fraud, it was explained to be just the opposite and that there was nothing about the election which was unbelievable and was, as a matter of fact, explained as nothing other than mere extraordinary good fortune. Any discussion to the contrary was avoided by all major news agencies and journalists, leaving half the population serendipitously delighted and the other half dismayed and apoplectic, who were soon told that they were conspirators and must also be latent white supremacist racists, as well, who are in dire need of remedial education, to deal with their racist and senseless disbeliefs, or else would be subject to cancelled and other punishments. And so they have been."

"Not to be outdone by the aforementioned, after two years of vaccine mendacity by Lord Fauci, the CDC, the WHO and every major western democracy, frantically trying to outdo the fascism of the WWII Axis Powers, many Americans are still being forced to acquire additional jabs of Covid-19, or boosters, regardless of any natural immunity and despite the current evidence that the vaccines no longer work against the new, far less pathogenic, Omicron variety, anywhere in the world, or else told they will be denied permission to engage in most aspects of society, and, instead, face huge fines and incarceration, without having been granted acceptable exemptions, such as recently having illegally arrived through the unguarded an open southern border."

"Considering what has occurred in all of 2021 the sane should come to the conclusion that no one can get away from the insane world and what is happening. We can only become more powerful, purposeful and determined to deal with what will not go away in 2022."

COVID crisis has led to 'mass hysteria' caused by fear: Canadian ethics professor

Dr. Julie Ponesse, who was fired earlier this year for opposing her university's COVID shot mandate, said that in her opinion without the 'immovable moral compass' provided by faith, or another deep conviction, people now look to government leaders to tell them what to think and what to do.
